

“Career paths in medicinal Research, Development and Production in Greece”

The project “Career paths in medicinal Research, Development and Production in Greece” is introduced to 20 schools across Greece this school year, with the support of Pharmathen.

Students now have the unique opportunity to get in contact with professions and sectors of their interest as well as meet Pharmathen’s professionals and scientists, who undertake the role of mentors and introduce Research and Development of medicines as a career path.

Through live and asynchronous sessions, students learn more about the Greek pharmaceutical industry by the mentors, who share their knowledge and experience, while offering inspiration in an interactive way to help students make informed decisions on their future.

The project is implemented with the support of Pharmathen for the school year 2022-2023.
